- Design and perform experiments to investigate nuclear phenomena.
- Analyze and interpret experimental data using advanced mathematical and statistical methods.
- Collaborate with interdisciplinary teams to develop innovative solutions to complex problems.
- Contribute to the development and improvement of nuclear technologies.
- Present research findings through publications, conferences, and other professional forums.
- Stay abreast of the latest advancements in nuclear science and technology.
- Mentor and guide junior researchers and contribute to their professional development.

Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Nuclear Physics, Nuclear Engineering, or a related field.
- Proven experience in nuclear research with a strong publication record.
- Proficiency in experimental techniques, data analysis, and simulation tools.
- Excellent problem-solving and critical-thinking skills.
- Strong collaboration and communication skills.
- Ability to work independently and as part of a team.
- Knowledge of safety protocols in nuclear research.

Benefits:

- Competitive salary commensurate with experience and qualifications.
- Comprehensive health and wellness benefits.
- Professional development opportunities.
- Access to state-of-the-art research facilities.
- Collaborative and dynamic work environment.
- Opportunities for career advancement.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates are invited to apply online by filling out the application form available on the official IGCAR website. Please submit a cover letter, resume, and a list of three professional references. Shortlisted candidates will be contacted for interviews.
